

Sweden Often Call Europe's America But With Contempt

EDITOR'S NOTE — David B. Ottaway, a student at the University of Paris, will write occasional articles of his impressions in France, Sweden and other countries that he visits.

By David B. Ottaway

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — I have heard it said several times that Sweden is "Europe's America." She is often called this with scorn and contempt for the title, but a note of jealousy is sometimes struck, too.

After visiting with several families in different parts of Sweden I find that there is a great deal of truth and meaning in this.

Sweden, like America, is presently absorbed in its material well being. Its standard of living approaches closer to that of America than most other European countries.

Equal to or More

Sweden is modern and progressive and consciously aware of becoming more so. Stockholm has a subway system to which none other in the world can compare for convenience, cleanliness and modernity.

The department stores and office buildings of midtown Stockholm are equal to or still more modern than those of America.

The homes and more numerous apartment buildings constructed in the past 10 years, contain nearly all modern conveniences found in the average American home.

The interest and desire to follow the most modern designs is again reflected in the type of silverware, china and utensils which I saw in various homes and in shop windows.

Other similarities to the American culture are found in the interests which occupy the Swedish mind and his daily life.

American rock-and-roll and hit tunes are played everywhere, English, and more particularly American words, are used as catch phrases in advertisements. Practically everyone speaks a little English and it is obligatory to learn English as the number one foreign language throughout the school system.

Socialistic Government

Turning the wheels of progress is a socialistic form of government. But Sweden's socialism is not patterned after that of the Soviet system and the Communist party holds a slim five seats in the national assembly.

The official state philosophy is the liberty and equality of every Swedish citizen. It is the state serving and supporting her countrymen, rather than the individual working for the benefit and greater glory of the state.

The results of a widely extended social service program are startling. There are fewer poor people in Sweden than in America. The government hand touches and supports all of its citizenry.

Yet the kickback in this general well being of Sweden has brought problems still unsolved and, in fact, not completely understood by sociologists of Sweden.

Punched Card Saves Tax Return Time

THAT little "greeting card" you may have just received from U. S. Internal Revenue Service—the one with the tiny holes punched in it—safeguard it. Use it as your Federal income tax return.

You will save the Government—and hence all taxpayers—money, and you will be speeding up the handling of the annual avalanche of returns.

R. P. Brownell, Director of Internal Revenue for Scranton District, issued this appeal to those taxpayers who have recently received in the mails a "pre-punched" card Form 1040A for this year's return.

When the taxpayer files his return using the pre-punched card, Internal Revenue can use the return to locate mechanically another card in which the taxpayer's name and address have already been punched.

If the taxpayer fails to use the pre-punched card, and makes his return on another card, IRS must spend additional time and money on the job of hand-punching the name and address again.

It's costly and time-consuming work, and it has to be done each year for several million taxpayers who have lost, destroyed or mutilated the pre-punched cards sent them.

Foresees Bigger Responsibility In Mental Health

HARRISBURG (AP) — An anticipated increase in Pennsylvania's population before 1970 will create a greater responsibility in the field of mental health, a Public Welfare Department spokesman said yesterday.

In an interview, Dr. John K. Davis, commissioner of mental health, stressed that while the state is taking gigantic strides presently, the pace must be increased in the years ahead.

"Today we are in a position—financially and otherwise—where we can solidify the gains of the past several years and add to them in the near future," Davis said, adding:

"The state is constantly showing progress in mental health. We are treating more patients and returning more of them to normal or near normal lives in their communities."

Confesses Five More Burglaries

A STROUDSBURG man, following a lie detector test, yesterday admitted five additional burglaries in Stroudsburg, John B. Tretheway, Stroudsburg chief of police, said last night.

Lawrence Johnson, 23 of 601 Ann St., submitted to the lie-detector test at the Easton barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police. It was administered by Detective Sgt. Earl Kane, polygraph expert of the New Jersey State Police.

The additional burglaries admitted by Johnson include Legier's Pizzeria, 201 N. Ninth St.; Daubert's Richfield Service Station, 103 Park Ave.; Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2540; Pocomo Bowling Center, 18 N. Sixth St., and the office of Citizens Gas Co., 12 S. Seventh St.

Johnson had previously admitted burglaries at Beseker's Diner, N. Ninth St.; Happy Hour Tavern, Park Ave., and Wyckoff Dept. Store.

Other Spots Also
He also admitted burglaries in Columbia and Delaware, N. J., and Portland, according to police.

He is awaiting court action in Northampton County on a burglary charge resulting from the theft of $32.85 from the David Dahlan Service Station, Portland.

Detainers have been lodged against him for the other burglaries.

In addition to Tretheway, Johnson was questioned by Troopers Peter A. Walsh and Alexander G. Kearn of the local State Police barracks.

Groups Set To Provide Game Food

THE ICE-COATED snow covering an area fields and woodlands is making it difficult for wild game to find sufficient food, sportsmen pointed out yesterday.

Several groups are taking steps to correct the condition. Members of the Pocomo-Paradise Gun Club, for instance, have placed feeders throughout the club property and are asking all members to cooperate in placing food for the game.

Notices Sent Out

Notices have been sent to the members urging them to go to the Scotrun Postoffice and pick up the food packages.

The ice crust is also creating another problem for deer, club members said. They explained that dogs which have been allowed to run at large are chasing deer and are able to catch and sometimes kill the animals which find it difficult to run on the ice crust.

The sportsmen appealed to all dog owners to keep their pets tied so they would not become a menace to the wild game.

Sexton Named To 9th Term As CLU Head

THE BOARD of governors of the CLU Social Club met last night at 7 p.m. in the Club building for their regular monthly meeting.

Elected officers for 1960 were Thomas Sexton, president; Stewart Pipher, vice president; Carl Woolever, secretary-treasurer; Paul Dellaria, recording secretary and Frank Read, steward.

This will be Sexton's ninth term as head of the club.

Other points of business were the discussion of a plan to conduct a membership drive. No date was set as plans were not completed.

Financial report for the year was read and showed that the organization was in good standing.

It was announced that the CLU Memorial Park building and property was being torn down to make way for the new 611 by-pass. Most of the property will be taken over by the state for the construction of the highway.

Permission was granted to the Central Labor Union of Monroe and Pike counties to hold their annual banquet at the club April 23.

Application of 15 new members were received and accepted.

New Bangor School Costs Up $170,000

BANGOR — Estimates for the proposed new Bangor Area Senior High School were revised upward from $1,830,000 to $2,000,000 last night at a meeting here.

Dr. Nicholas Carcario, president, explained while the cost estimates is being increased it does not mean that the full amount will be spent. He said the revision was suggested by H. A. Everett, architect, and that full reimbursement to the jointure is guaranteed from the state under the original cost plan of $1,800,000.

At the suggestion of George Duddy, of the architect firm, the directors approved the suggestion to re-submit the building application for state approval. The original plan had already been approved.

Duddy gave a breakdown explaining why $170,000 will be added. He noted that when contract bids are received this spring the architects are hoping to keep below the $2,000,000 estimates.

He said $66,000 is added to cover the sewage disposal. The original estimate was $16,000 but state health requirements sent it upward.

New kitchen facilities of stainless steel will be installed to meet state requirements and this will add another $10,000.

Team rooms in the basement will add $40,000 and another $14,000 for contingencies.

The committee also reviewed tentative plans for the athletic field and the architect will submit an estimated cost at its meeting next month.

Step Plan Okayed For Flood Project

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Development of plans for the vast federal flood control program on the Brodheads Creek watershed will be confined to the creek headwaters area above Canadensis until that phase of the project is completed.

This was indicated by the approval yesterday by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service of a request by the project sponsors of both Monroe and Pike Counties that the proposed flood control program be developed in different stages.

In granting the request the federal agency said it looked with favor upon the suggestion which may facilitate plan development, procuring of rights of way and advance the construction stage to an earlier time than might be possible if the overall program would be developed at the same time.

The completed work of the federal agency said it has completed work plans for flood control measures on the upper area of the watershed.

Included in the facilities called for in the plans are four dams. The agency said that at least two of the proposed dams offer a possibility that they would be suitable for development as multi-purpose dams—use for recreation and domestic water supply as well as for flood control.

However, the agency pointed out that federal funds, which will be used to pay the cost of the over-all flood control program, cannot be used to pay the cost of recreation and water supply developments.

Cost of recreation and water supply phases of the project must be paid for by the local sponsors, according to the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

Since the work plans for flood control are completed the next move on the part of the federal service is presentation of the plans to Congress to procure approval for construction funds.

The agency said it will withhold requesting Congressional approval until the local sponsors can explore the multi-purpose phase of the dams and decide upon action they wish to take.

The four dams provided for in the work plans for the upper watershed area will control all water in that area for flood control purposes, the federal agency said.

The overall Brodheads Creek watershed program has been referred to as a multi-million dollar undertaking.

Flood control programs costing in excess of $250,000 must be approved by Congress. Projects costing less than that sum are approved by Ivan McKeever, chief conservationist of the agency for Pennsylvania.

Cost of the first stage of the proposed Brodheads Creek program, comprising the area above Canadensis, will require Congressional approval, the agency said.

According to plans developed by the federal agency the upper Brodheads Creek watershed area comprises 29.1 square miles. Area of the entire Brodheads Creek watershed for which flood protection is planned covers approximately 170 square miles.

Lakes, mountains, the pot-holes and debris left by the ice age; the remains of Indian villages and frontier forts; the scars of industry including lumbering and tanning; and the growth of the resorts due to natural resources of the region were shown in the slides.

Praising the work of the Junior Historians, Sumberg invited members of the senior society to attend the Spring meeting to be held on the college campus.

Numa Snyder played two violin selections. Rev. P. N. Wohlsein gave the invocation, and Dr. Robert Brown introduced the speaker.

At the annual business meeting, it was reported that there were 53 new members taken in during the year making a total of 225 members. Memorial minutes were read by Dr. Brown for members who died during the year: Mrs. Edward Spaulding Selby, Jacob S. Haigh, Rev. F. H. Blatt, Mrs. Philip E. Brundage, Mrs. C. B. Staples and Mrs. Stewart Shiffer.

Mrs. Chester Rhodes and Elstan Arnt were re-elected as directors, and tentative plans were made for a Summer pilgrimage.

Schick, vice president; Roy Correll, secretary; William Kostenbader, treasurer, and Floyd Correll, emeritus, John Jacobs and Harry DeLong will serve their second year as Deacons.

Like A Family Budget

With 1960 being a presidential election year, real pressures will be exerted within Congress to let the bars down on federal spending programs despite President Eisenhower's appeals for stricter economy.

If our duly elected representatives have the country at heart half as much as their campaign speeches would have us believe, we think they would take heed to the advice sounded by Maurice H. Stans, director of the U.S. Budget Bureau.

In an address before the Tax Foundation, Mr. Stans warned that we must adopt an attitude of realism and a disposition to tighten up the machinery of democratic government by putting the nation's interest ahead of particular pressure group interests.

As an approach, he said we should try to reduce the concept of government budgeting to terms that are meaningful to everybody.

Except for its dimensions, the federal budget is parallel to a family's budget as a plan for living, with its goals, its fixed costs, its choices among variables, its contingencies and above all its relevance to what we can afford within our means, Mr. Stans explains.

"The simple idea that whatever is spent must somehow be covered by what is earned would help to dissipate the widespread delusion that in some strange way when money comes from Washington it doesn't cost anybody anything," the budget director declared.

All this may sound very academic and perhaps unimportant to the average citizen in Monroe County. But it is far from a small matter now and it will be an even bigger one in the years to come, since it affects the pocketbook of every taxpayer in this country.

We may think we have gained special concession when we receive a government grant for a project we should have undertaken and financed ourselves months or years before.

Such monies are not a windfall, however, especially when the same types of handouts are parceled out all over the country for all sorts of projects. The sum total is a staggering figure. Unbridled spending long ago emptied our nation's pocketbook and has been existing for years on a credit card, all in the face of steadily mounting taxes.

We think Congress would perform the finest possible service it could for the public if it would only dedicate its services at this session to bringing sanity back into the budget picture.

Opinions Of Other Editors

The Shocking Image

A police magistrate in Philadelphia has set up a big mirror in his court so those arranged before him for drunkenness can see themselves as others do.

A reporter for the Philadelphia Bulletin told of how a large group of them reacted on a recent morning after when they obeyed the judge's directive to take a good look at themselves.

"Some looked embarrassed. Others winced and shook their heads. Frowns crossed faces pallid with hangovers. Many of the men bowed their heads in shame. And all pledged never to touch a drop of alcohol again."

Quite an interesting experiment. The magistrate, who obviously knows a lot about human nature, is going to keep a record of those he discharges so as to be able to spot repeaters.

Any man with a shred of pride left in him would be shocked to see what excessive drinking does to his appearance. But would this shock sustain him in a pledge of never-again?

The chances of a "yes" answer to that would be better if a man's memory weren't so short when it comes to drinking too much, or if a man who got drunk studied himself in the mirror while he was getting that way.

Study In Contrasts

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Capitol Hill Republicans here in Harrisburg were somewhat taken aback by an interesting development on Capitol Hill in Washington during the week when the Republican Eisenhower Administration presented its $79.8 billion budget—only to find it being criticized as "too little" by Pennsylvania's Democratic U.S. Senator Joseph S. Clark, Philadelphia.

What so highly amused those Republican legislators who happened to be in town during the week while the Legislature is in recess until Monday, is the fact that lawmakers of opposing political faith to that of an Administration almost invariably lambast the administration for submitting spending requests routinely referred to as "too high."

For Republicans who have not been in the front office on Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill since 1954, they recall only too vividly how Democrats in the legislative branch during prior GOP administration days took particular delight in lampooning Republican administrations for submitting "excessively high" budgets.

"Why couldn't we have had some Joe Clark's on the Democratic side during our days in the front office?" wagged one GOP leader with tongue in cheek. "It's most certainly a study in contrasts!"

From The Distaff Side — State's Attorney General Anne X. Alperin in no uncertain terms this week let go a healthy blast in the direction of the Republican-controlled State Senate — in unquestionably one of the strongest criticisms yet to be hurled by anyone on the Democratic Administration side.

Alperin in referring to the absentee voting legislation approved by the Legislature — and Democratic Governor Lawrence:

"They (the Republican-controlled Senate) shredded a good bill that was prepared very carefully and gave us a bill that will lead to the disenfranchisement of many voters who were to have been helped."

Snapped one irate GOP Senator leader:

"That's one person's opinion. Assuming by virtue of her office she speaks for the Democratic Lawrence Administration, then why did the Governor sign the bill. There must be crossed wires up front somewhere!"

Note To Pennsylvania's Male Brood — To uphold tradition, make certain you are properly dressed the week of March 7-13. Reason: that week is to be known as National "Dress Right Week," and Gov. Lawrence — at the request of the Men's Apparel Club of Pennsylvania (?) — has asked Pennsylvania's male brood to take due note.

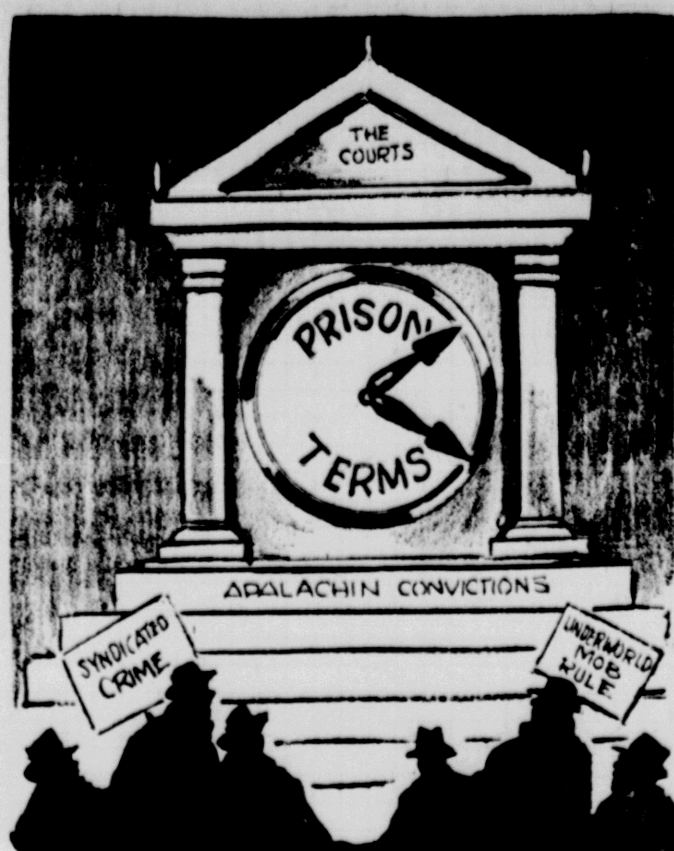

Quoth the Governor in a statement this week urging Pennsylvania observance of the dressy occasion:

"We are proud of our sources of men's apparel supply, of the tradesmen who proudly produce the finest men's apparel merchandise — and of the well-suited appearance of Pennsylvania men in general."

NB to Governor Lawrence and his Apparel Club constituents: "We'll most certainly put our best suit forward — providing we still have one by that time."

Up Periscope! — Many Pennsylvanians — are understandably perhaps — are under the impression Pennsylvania's State Treasury is loaded with cash. . . . Actually, "not so" assures J. Hugh McNeil, Treasury Public Information Officer. . . . The big vault in the basement of the Finance Building usually is bone dry insofar as cash on hand is concerned.

Occasionally a "few thousand" dollars may be kept overnight for transfer to banks immediately the next day but most of the time the vault is empty of cash. . . . However, it is a big repository of convertible securities and when checked this week, these securities totaled $1,526,000,000.

Frightened Scientists

Mary Godwin, the wife of Percy Bysshe Shelley and daughter of the feminist Mary Wollstonecraft, wrote the story of Victor Frankenstein, after this feat of science, lived in everlasting torture because of his achievement. Describing how she came to do such a thing, Mary Godwin wrote:

"I saw — with shut eyes, but acute mental vision — I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together — I saw the hideous phantasm of a man stretched out, and then, on the working of some powerful engine, show signs of life, and stir with an uneasy, half vital motion."

"Frightful must it be; for supremely frightful would be the effect of any human endeavor to mock the stupendous mechanism of the Creator of the world. His success would terrify the artist; he would rush away from his odious handiwork, horror-stricken."

We often speak of Frankenstein as though he were the monster and not its author. It would be as though we were to call Dr. Enrico Fermi, Mr. Atom Bomb and Dr. Harold Urey, Mr. Heavy Water.

The fear that comes to men who create instruments of destruction must indeed be devastating and that perhaps is why so many atomic scientists demand that the alchemy which they threw together be banned.

Many scientists are having a very difficult time reconciling knowledge and sense, technical genius and wisdom. They are moving so fast, have achieved so much, have conquered ignorance so brilliantly that they have not had time enough to catch their breaths and to grasp the meaning of it.

I see a letter by Richard C. Bradley, Assistant Professor of Physics at Cornell University. He is very much concerned about over-population. The question of population or over-population is related to the food supply.

There is plenty of room on Earth, the Sahara Desert, the Gobi Desert, the Arabian Desert, to take three examples of roominess (one dare not use the word, space, any more) is not our concern. It is food.

And food is plentiful — so plentiful that what is stored in the bottoms of otherwise useless ships and in warehouses. The scientist then need not worry himself about over-population but about inadequate distribution of the food supply of the Earth and the meaningless failure to teach underdeveloped peoples to use organic fertilizer.

It would make much more sense to teach the people of India how to use cow manure on their land than to teach them birth control. As a matter of fact, those who govern India are well-informed about fertilizers and birth control and if, for political reasons, they prefer to use dung for coal instead of for fertilizer, that is strictly their business.

If we desire to save India from a revolution because of misuse, the logical method is to take it over and manage it until we are driven out, as the British were, by the superior use of words, with no accompanying action, as Gandhi did.

To revert to Professor Bradley, he sat down with pencil in hand and did some simple arithmetic calculating, which is somewhat of a comendation for a professor who should use at least X's and Y's, and he produced this:

"Take the world population at mid-century (about 2,000,000,000) take the present doubling rate (once every fifty years), and project the population indefinitely into the future. We see that by the year 2000 there will be 4,000,000,000 people, by the year 2050 there will be 8,000,000,000, and so on."

"Before ten centuries will have passed, our descendants can count on having 200,000,000 neighbors — which is slightly more than the number of square feet of land surface on Earth, including the South Pole, the Sahara Desert and Mount Everest."

This is very correct arithmetic. But what is the Q.E.D.? Does the professor desire that we should all limit ourselves to two children, to one child, or to no child at all?

Shall we practice infanticide? If, by the grace of God, an extra child appears? Are the limitations upon children to be imposed only upon the black, yellow and brown peoples or also on the whites?

Suppose some nation secretly violates the international agreement on child limitation, is the United Nations required to raise a Police Force to extirpate that nation, strutting its land with slaughtered surplus?

Notes of a Newspaperman

The coldly clinical psychiatric estimate of murderers is that they are basically frustrated persons who are emotionally maladjusted. Murder contains elements of a macabre fascination for the public and is a dramatic tragedy to newspapermen — as some current headlines indicate: The Finch-Tregoff murder trial. The case of Julian Andrews Frank who apparently blew up a plane that killed him and 34 others — so that his family could collect insurance. The eminent scientist and dean of Louisiana State University's graduate school who is charged with murder. . . . Judge Martin M. Frank, in his exciting new book, "Diary of a D. A.," accurately observes: "Crime, criminals and their prosecution and punishment, have, from the day Cain slew Abel and the Supreme Enforcer dealt with his first fratricide, provoked the interest, aroused the passions and puzzled the minds of men."

To the police, a homicide means intensive effort. It results in hours, weeks — or years — of exhaustive investigation. Clues are checked and rechecked — every lead is fully explored. Many cases are cracked without dramatic flair. They are simply the consequence of diligence. . . . One of the most spell-binding murder yarns is a chapter in Judge Frank's book titled: "Manhunt." It details the case of a rapist-killer. For over a year he committed his crimes in several cities and states. Authorities had a description of him and the search was constant. He was finally nabbed in New York as the result of a routine police check in a midtown hotel.

The killer — named George Cvek — was interrogated by a detective who said: "Now, Cvek, come on — why not tell me the truth — get it off your chest — you'll feel much better if you do. Then at least some of us around here won't think you're a stinker. A real man never lies about a dead dame — only queers do. You're no pansy, are you, George?"

The thrust at his virility did the trick. He confessed.

Flossie Steele, the venerable one who gets better with age, is making an all-out effort to put the Babe Ruth Mothers Auxiliary on the map.

Mrs. Steele, of East Stroudsburg, has been working feverishly these winter months setting up projects that will enrich the coffers of the near-empty treasury.

The proposals of the ladies membership are expected to be in motion before the summer arrives.

Joe Ferenc reportedly put on a party the other eve that would make a Hollywood spectacle look small.

The Stroudsburg jack-of-all-trades, with the help of Joe (call me manager) Dane and Dr. Harold Waidlich, were hosts on the "QT" to a group of their friends at the Towne Room.

One person who sometimes doubts Joseph's word, missed the affair. It seems the absentee felt like the fellow who heard the wolves were coming three times and didn't believe the cry on the fourth call.

How to win friends and influence people. That is the theme of Alvin Clapper, the cap-wearing steward at the Stroudsburg Eagles.

Brother Clapper, the only man who has covered the Northern part of the United States more than the Canadian Mounties, is reading Dale Carnegie's message daily to up the standards of his profession.

Don Rau, the Tannersville businessman, is waiting for the fishing season to arrive. Rau, an angler with an angle, plans to get new equipment this year so he won't have to tell the tall stories about the one that got away.

Dave Beseker, the diner man out Snyder'sville way, is telling folks he expects to make a comeback in baseball this year.

Dave, one-time hurling star of the Pocono Mountain League, has been working out his left arm on the bowling lanes.

"It's in a great shape," Dave announced.

"By the way do you know of any club needing a soft-throwing portside?" he said.

Interpreting The News

Research Promises Wonderful Things

By J. M. Roberts (AP News Analyst)

If you have or expect any grandchildren, Dr. Howard A. Wilcox, deputy director of research and engineering for the Department of Defense, has an interesting word for you.

For many years the chief dream of man has been of a world in which ample food for all and a common understanding among peoples would eliminate the pressures which produce international conflict.

Dr. Wilcox says we can have it in 100 years through the development of the sciences of physics and values. The latter is called axiology.

He says unlimited power will be produced through the extraction of energy from the heavy isotopes of oxygen. Coupled with nuclear-powered irrigation and modern chemistry, this can mean unlimited food.

Air cars, floating a few feet above the ground at 300 miles per hour will make communication between individuals possible throughout the limits of the earth.

And when people meet in such fashion, they will be able to understand each other through word unscramblers — hearing aids which will automatically translate any language.

These two things combined, Dr. Wilcox believes, will produce common understanding and a free, democratic universal society.

But man, he says, will have to learn that many of the things he values today are ridiculous and dangerous nonsense. That's where axiology, the science of establishing true social and moral values, enters.

The dictionary describes axiology as a science, but it isn't actually that yet, despite the claims of some of its exponents. It is more of an effort to establish a science from the component parts of religion and man's social experience.

The Allen-Scott Report

UAR, Panama Cooperate

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — President Gamal Nasser is opening a consulate in strife-torn, pro-paratary to exchanging ambassadors with that key Central American country.

Among the so-called diplomats being sent to highly strategic Panama by the United Arab Republic ruler are "canal experts" — Egyptian agitators, undercover agents and other veterans of the long and bitter guerrilla fighting that culminated in the nationalization of the Suez Canal.

Other Middle Eastern countries also are planning to open consulates in Panama. Already set to do that are Iraq and Libya, the former heavily infected by Communists.

This disturbing backstage development is directly related to Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Rao's visit to Cairo and other Arab capitals. The State Department has detailed information that this militant leftist and close lieutenant of Premier Fidel Castro discussed the following with Nasser: (1) Convening a conference in Havana in September of so-called underdeveloped countries of Latin America, Asia and Africa for the ostensible purpose of formulating plans to seek economic, financial and other aid.

However, the real purpose of this meeting is to organize a "third force" of neutral nations under Nasser's leadership in the Middle East and Castro's in Latin America.

(2) Obtaining arms, particularly planes and tanks, from Nasser, who is getting them from the Soviet bloc.

(3) Stirring up more difficulties for the U.S. in Central America, particularly in Panama, with the vital Canal as the prime target.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee has been informed that Rao was assured of Nasser's "full cooperation" on all these activities.

The Committee, headed by Rep. Thomas Morgan (D., Pa.), is making a comprehensive study of U.S. policy in Latin America. Secretary Herter and State Department and Pentagon specialists in that field are slated to be questioned.

One matter under scrutiny is a number of complaints about U.S. Information Service operations in Cuba. It is charged that while USIS has a staff of more than 25 in Havana, at an annual cost in excess of $215,000, it is ineffectual in countering the Castro regime's daily barrage of hostile propaganda.

Also, Rep. Daniel Flood (D., Pa.), of the House Military Appropriations Subcommittee, has asked for hearings to ascertain whether the Air Force has sufficient air-lift to rush U.S. troops to the Panama Canal in the event of more violence there. Flood has been told the Air Force could not transport 5,000 combat-equipped troops to the Canal Zone within 24 hours.

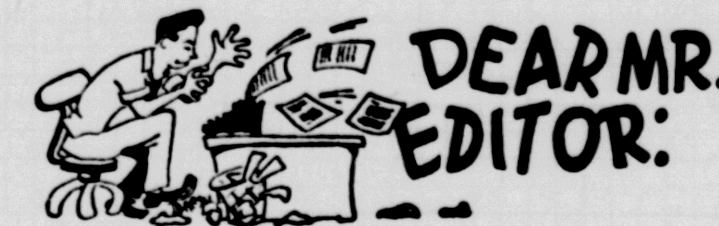

Latin Flashes — After Cuban Foreign Minister Rao's extensive trip through the Middle East and satellite countries, he is due to come to Washington next week. He has appointments with Secretary Herter, the Export-Import Bank and other authorities, but it remains to be seen whether Castro's lieutenant will show up.

While in Yugoslavia last week, Rao dropped hints he would propose a $200 million U.S. loan to "guarantee our bonds to pay off Americans whose sugar and other properties we are taking over."

Bolivia's new Ambassador Victor Andrade is an old hand in Washington. This is the third time he has represented his country here. The first was in 1944, when Franklin Roosevelt was in the White House; the second in 1951, when Harry Truman was President; and now Andrade will present his credentials to President Eisenhower.

Mexico did a boom trade in U.S. tourists last year. More than 650,000 visited there, and spent an estimated $600 million. This does not include so-called "day visitors" to such border towns as Nogales, Ciudad Juarez and Tijuana. On the basis of the steady increase in this tourist trade in recent years, Mexico confidently expects it to total $1 billion by 1965.

East Germany and India have signed a new agreement that will considerably increase the trade between them in 1960-62.

Charter Member Speaks

January 11, 1960 The Daily Record

Dear Editor:

I have read a number of articles in the "Record" recently concerning the The Children's Aid Society.

As a charter member, but not serving at present on the board, I regret very much the decision of our county commissioners. I sincerely hope they will continue on with the present arrangement.

This board is composed of fine women and men of our county who for many years have performed their duties in a splendid conscientious way and are to be highly commended for their work.

I have followed the work of the Children's Aid Society along the years and would regret very much if the commissioners were to discontinue the board who have labored long and faithfully in this work.

Grateful Parents

The Daily Record Dear Mr. Hill

We would like to publicly express our heartfelt appreciation for the most gratifying thing that has happened to us in the past month.

As the parents of a child born 28 months ago with a serious birth defect, we were recently faced with a grave problem. For 27 months of this time we, very foolishly thought we could handle this problem alone.

Today, we can see we were very blind parents for we were not only hurting our disabled child, but our other children and ourselves as well. We did not realize that we were becoming physically and spiritually unable to cope with this problem.

Help came to us from a wonderful team of people. The medical aspect was brought to light by Miss Gladys Merwin, who offered her help in securing hospital care.

Spiritual help was needed. This was provided by Mrs. Emma Merwin, with her knowledge of the spiritual need. The kind understanding, also, of Mrs. Ann Shafer, who offered her time and help along with Miss Gladys Merwin. Both are Department of Health workers.

This is blessed team work! Our problem was not only our disabled child, which we could no longer handle ourselves, but also that we were becoming very sick in our thoughts and emotions. They were all mixed up with fears, inferiority feelings, and re-

The head of a mental hospital patted one old inmate on the shoulder and said, "Joe, I've got fine news for you. You can go home to your wife tomorrow."

"Go home to my wife?" echoed the inmate bitterly. "So you think I'm still crazy, hey?"

A big shipbuilder, writes Fred Gooch, was about to award a fat contract to a Swedish engineer when his secretary told him there was another man in the anteroom who claimed to have a substantially lower bid. The shipbuilder decided, "Better send them both in. I might as well have the bidder with the Swede."

Help must come to them. For when resentments build up a person builds a hard shell around themselves. This shell must be broken by those who are qualified in this field. This statement is made from actual experience.

Once again we thank the very wonderful people mentioned above for their understanding, their hard work, their kindness and their unflinching spirit which has opened up a world of new understanding to us and our family.

Not knowing the problems of the Children's Aid Society we can only hope that through our letter a small light may be placed on the necessity for continuance of the Children's Aid Society in the county.

Green Thumb

Chinese Evergreen Rated One Of Top Foliage Plants

By George Abraham

A Good Foliage Plant: One of the best foliage plants we have is Aglaonema commutatum or Chinese Evergreen. Native to the Philippines, this plant does well indoors because of its low light requirement. Many gardeners grow it in shallow water gardens with great ease, although it does equally as well in soil. Since most homes have a high room temperature, the Chinese Evergreen is ideal as it seems to relish or withstand poor light at high temperatures. Flowers are small, and are inconspicuous due to the green color. Fruits are attractive red berries.

Troubles: Yellowing and dying of the lower foliage. This is due to lack of light or too high temperature. You can start new plants by stem divisions or tip cuttings.

Plastic Bags: The discarded plastic bags which carrots, laundered shirts, and doughnuts come in are mighty handy for the home gardener. Caution: Every precaution should be taken to keep these bags from babies or small children, just as you would pesticides, drugs and similar items.

Plastic Bag Use
One of the best uses for plastic bags now is for slipping plants. You make cuttings from your favorite house plants, stick them into a rooting medium such as vermiculite, or perlite. A 6 inch pot makes a good propagating container. After the cuttings are inserted you water them well, and then slip a plastic bag over the pot and it will act as a miniature greenhouse. Later watering is done simply by placing the pot in a dish of water. Once the cuttings have rooted under the clear plastic film (3 to 6 weeks) you're ready to pot them up in a good soil mix.

Free—Want to know more tricks for using old plastic bags? Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for our brand new bulletin, NEW USES FOR OLD PLASTIC BAGS. This bulletin contains dozens of slick tricks sent to me by readers of this department. We've put them together for this bulletin. You may have a free copy by sending me a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No postal cards, no clippings, please.

Florists Asparagus: You can find in many homes today the old fashioned "florists" asparagus fern of which there are two kinds. (1) Asparagus plumosus, the finely divided, deep green, lace-like foliage fern which most florists use for corsages, floral pieces, etc. (2) Asparagus sprengeri ("Emerald Feather") is a handsome trailing ornamental with needle-like leaves on long branches. Ideal for hanging baskets, window boxes, vases, pot plants, it too is used for cutting to mix as "greens" among flowers. Both varieties of asparagus are from seed and prefer a humus soil and lots of moisture. If you make your own corsages, or want a nice feathery house plant, try raising either variety of asparagus as grandmother did years ago.

Blue Mountain Choir Will Sing At Adventist Church

BLUE MOUNTAIN ACADEMY Choir, of Hamburg, Pa. will appear at the Stroudsburg Seventh-day Adventist church Saturday.

Services for the congregation will be changed for the day as follows: Sabbath school Bible classes will be held for all age groups between 9:30 and 10:30 a.m.

The choir will present an hour-long concert of sacred music beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Ten-age Group
The group is composed of high school age youth who are students at the Hamburg school. They come from homes in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Maryland and Ohio.

Miss Hope Okuno, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Okuno of Mt. Zion will appear with the thirty-eight singers.

John Edison who heads the music department at the academy will direct and Miss Joni Galambos, of Lansdale, is the student accompanist.

Edison is a graduate of Atlantic Union College, South Lancaster, Mass. He took some advanced work at Boston University and in 1958 won a scholarship to Tanglewood, home of the Boston Symphony. He was also a member of the Wooster symphony.

Among selections to be presented are: "Once to Every Man A Nation," by James; "Jesu Friend of Sinners" — Grieg; "Jesu Man's Desiring" — Bach, and "Modern American Spiritual" — Lynn. Solos, duet, a quartet, and a ladies triple trio is also on the program.

Travel In State
The choir travels throughout the state, has appeared on television and made appearances in Washington, D.C. The group gave a similar concert here in 1958 when Pastor Russell R. Adams a former local clergyman acted as their narrator. He was at that time the principal of the academy.

At the conclusion of the service the youths will be served lunch by the ladies of the congregation.

A cordial welcome is extended area residents.

Reports Reds Destroy Old China Culture

BUCK HILL FALLS — The conditions under which the Chinese people live in present-day communist-controlled China, and the conditions under which Chinese Christians are carrying on there, were outlined to the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church, at its annual meeting here yesterday.

The statement came as part of the report of the Rev. Tracey R. Jones, Jr., an executive secretary of the Board, recently returned from a visit to lands bordering China. Much of his information on conditions came from persons recently in China — some of them escapees from communist oppression.

"The developments, political and economic, on the mainland of China this past year have been confused," Dr. Jones reported. "The 26,000 communes have unquestionably faced severe internal strain and difficulty. The government has been forced to reappraise the entire program. As yet, there has been no radical alteration in their determination to organize the Chinese peasant into these large communal groupings. However, the discontent of the peasant community has been felt by the communist leaders and adjustments have been made trying to ease the resentment."

Question Box

D. H. of Stroudsburg: "Snow and ice broke off some limbs on our trees and shrubs. Was our trees weak from lack of food? What should be done to get the trees back in shape?"

The fact that some limbs broke off does not mean your trees were weak. Branches break from healthy trees as well as weak ones. Ice can be worse than snow. Rain will freeze on contact, coating the limbs with glistening ice.

The weight of this accumulated ice will exert considerable strain upon the plants. The weight becomes so great that some branches break under the strain. Many shrubs are practically prostrated.

Actually, most trees and shrubs will suffer no great damage from an ice or snow storm. Branches will spring back to their normal position when ice melts.

However, if ice remains on evergreens for a considerable time, you're apt to get some permanent arching or bending. Such plants should be staked in order for them to regain their upright position.

Snow may be gently shaken from evergreens or shrubs to reduce the added weight but never disturb an ice-coated plant. Branches that are broken should be cut back flush with the trunk to avoid unsightly stumps.

Large cuts can be treated with a tree wound dressing to reduce the likelihood of insect and disease attack. Sometimes an ice or snow storm is helpful by removing dead limbs. Such pruning by nature (along with wind-pruning) is all the pruning some shades trees ever get.

Help nature along by removing dead branches as they provide suitable living conditions for various injurious insects. Trees can be trimmed any time now.

For wound dressing, using a good quality dressing available at garden supply stores. House paint is not recommended. Ask for an asphalt base paint containing a disinfectant. The film of dressing must be intact during the winter.

H. D. of Gilbert: "I have a begonia plant which never blooms, although the leaves are nice and green. What's wrong?"

This may be due to too much nitrogen, lack of light, or possibly insect activity. If your begonia does not bloom in spite of good soil, good care, then try moving it to a brighter window.

Begonias need protection from direct sun, but that does not mean they must not have light. Good light is needed for flower bud formation, especially during the winter months.

Incidentally, some begonias such as the Star begonia and Rex, have a habit of growing over the side of the pot. Correct this by repotting, setting the plant in a different position so that the growing point is centered. Many of the rhizome-type plants have a sprawling, rambling growth habit.

WALTER CARTER, who is making his winter home in Palmira, N.J., has returned to his apartment here for convalescence following a stay of three weeks in West Camden Hospital. He is reported to be much improved, following treatment for a collapsed lung.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schoenagel, Sr., Greentown, are spending the winter in Crescent City, Florida.

Business Column

Dear Abby

E&J Sales
Actual Gov't
Surplus Store

SINCE Sept. 1, 1959, Monroe County has had its only actual government store—The E & J Sales located at 110 Washington Street, East Stroudsburg.

Many of the items you will find at the E & J Sales are brand new. This merchandise was originally purchased by the U. S. Government. After the war, the government began selling surplus, much of which is new and some used, to the best bidders.

It is through such sales that a young native couple have been afforded the opportunity to offer the public top quality, plus tremendous savings.

Besides surplus, E & J's also handles better known brands of power and hand tools, such as: Protol, Challenger, Bonnie and Snap-on. This is strictly standard stock, not surplus.

However, E & J's line of surplus is always changing. It is here that you are apt to find that miscellaneous item you have been trying so long to find.

Find Anything

You can find everything from odd radio parts to sandpaper, navy coffee cups, wheels, laboratory stands, life jackets and nuts and bolts. These are just a few of the many varied miscellaneous items carried.

Some of the larger items carried by E & J Sales are power generators, from 750 to 35,000 watts—110 and 220 volts.

E & J Sales is owned and operated by John and Edna May Stetler. Both Mr. and Mrs. Stetler were born and reared in East Stroudsburg. They are now living near Bushkill, along the Delaware River.

John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Stetler, East Stroudsburg, RD 3. He is presently employed by the Patterson-Kelley Co., Inc., East Stroudsburg, as a welder.

Has Own Outfit
Stetler also has his own welding and burning outfit.

Mrs. Stetler is the former Edna May Merring, daughter of Alvin B. Merring, 40 N. Green St., East Stroudsburg, and the late Josephine R. Merring.

Stetler said, "Surplus is not junk. The government bought excessively, but what they purchased was all top quality merchandise. Excessive government purchases and their surplus sales are what constitutes the newness of E & J Sales."

The Stetlers added: "We are open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and all are welcome to come in and browse around."

Rate Discount Plan

A RATE discount plan for compact and foreign cars, latest development in the hotly competitive auto insurance market, has been filed in 43 states by State Farm Mutual, local agent, Lloyd E. Manter, announced yesterday.

Two other major independent insurers have announced discounts for the smaller cars in recent weeks. He said the State Farm discount of 10 percent will apply to liability, comprehensive and collision coverages. The company has eased horsepower and price limitations in order to qualify more models of the compact American makes, Manter said.

The lower rates are for 1954 and later model domestic and foreign cars, which do not exceed 3,000 pounds, 130 horsepower or 200 inches in length. There is no limit on the price of American cars, but foreign models can be priced no higher than $2500 at port of entry to qualify. Other plans have 125 horsepower and $2300 price limits for both foreign and American makes.

Many models of the six-cylinder Rambler and Lark, all Valiants, Falcons and Corvairs and most foreign small cars will be eligible for the State Farm discount.

3 Deeds Filed
In Courthouse

THREE deeds were filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeannette F. Batory, Monroe County register and recorder:

Yetter, Smithfield Township; Peter and Albina Ucciferi, Mt. Pocono, to Michael and Caroline Masallem, Brooklyn, N.Y., two lots in Mt. Pocono.

She's In Training, Mom

Dear Abby: How much waste does a girl who weighs 85 pounds and is five feet tall need in a bathtub? She thinks she has to have it up to her neck. She acts like she is the only one in the family who has to take bath. When she gets through, no one else has any hot water. Please put this in the paper. She won't listen to me. She is 12.
HER MOTHER

Dear Mother: If your daughter at 12 "won't listen" to you on such a minor matter, prepare yourself for some major disappointments. Children should be taught that "sharing" with members of the family is expected. If your daughter doesn't learn this soon, she'll probably be in hot water up to her neck all her life.

Dear Abby: My wife and I have been married for 21 years. While she was away visiting relatives for two weeks, I found a picture of a strange fellow hidden under the paper lining of a drawer. I became very upset and angry and wrote her a letter (I included this picture) and I told her she needn't bother to come home. I figured she would not have this picture hidden unless she was hiding something else. She called me up when she got my letter and said this fellow had been dead for years and that I had a lot of nerve accusing her of wrong-doing. Who is right?

ANGRY HUSBAND

Dear Husband: You had no right to suspect the worst and accuse her of wrong-doing before hearing her explanation. And to tell her "she needn't bother to come home" was about as far as a judge sentencing a defendant without hearing the case.

Dear Abby: What makes you women so nervous?
CHARLIE

Dear Charlie: You men!

Maj. Sico Assumes Command
Of AF Recruiting In Area

Market Nudges
Ahead Again

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market managed to nudge ahead Thursday in light trading. It was only the third time in 1960 that more stocks rose than fell.

Volume slipped to 2,700,000 shares from Wednesday's 2,720,000, making this the second day of the lowest turnover since Dec. 24 when 2,320,000 shares were traded.

Key stocks generally recovered fractions to about a point of big recent losses and a few blue chips tacked on two points or so.

The Dow Jones Industrial averages rose 1.74 to 645.43.

Bangor Burgess Informs
Kiwanians Of Sewage System

BANGOR—Pertinent facts on the sewage system were provided by Quintus LaBar, chief Burgess, at the dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Colonial Hotel Tues. evening.

Piled with questions during a general discussion, the Burgess informed the club that construction of the system is expected to start in March, approximately 18 months will be required for completion and that arrangements have been made for traffic so that business will not be impaired while work on the streets is in progress. Portions of the community covered by the installation also were noted.

The group then discussed the possibility of securing new industry, noting that sewage and new school building would be favorable for progress in this direction. Other improvements also were weighed, including parking and the establishment of a city planning commission for a building code and zoning ordinance.

Also Aired

The possibility of placing government agencies on an area-wide service basis, with police protection, garbage disposal, etc., provided for all communities jointly, also was aired.

Anthony Trigliani, vice president, was in charge. Dr. Anson Hamm offered the invocation. Burgess LaBar and Harold Crane, of Easton, guests, were introduced by Trigliani.

Prior to the dinner, a moment of silent prayer was held for Harry Laveton, immediate past president who died last week.

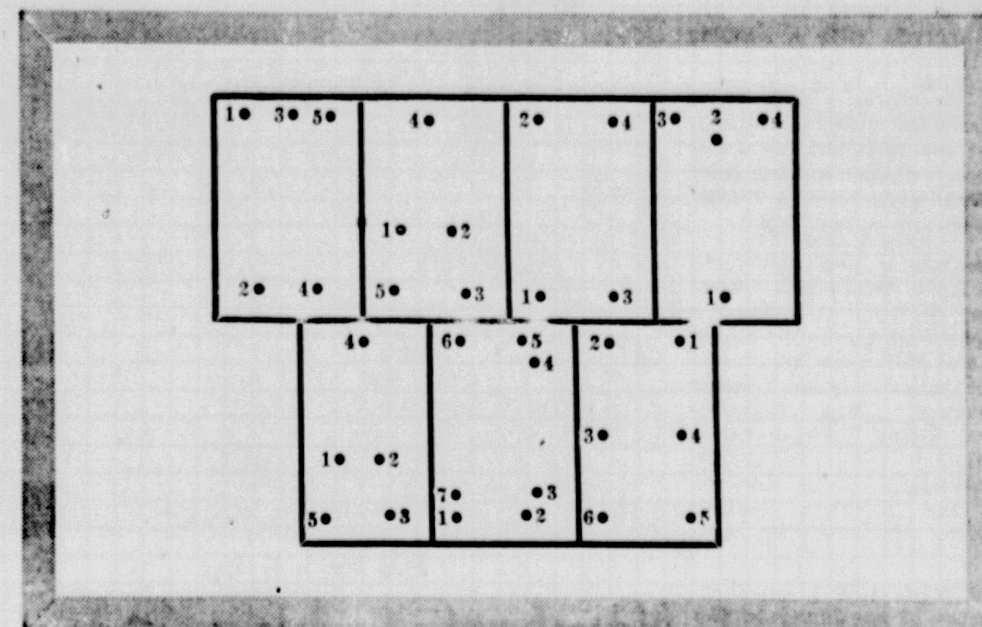

Forty-eight of the 56 signers of the Declaration of Independence were born in America. Three were born in Ireland, two each in England and Scotland and one in Wales.

Alaska's flag—the Big Dipper and North Star on a blue field—was designed by a 13-year-old Benny Benson, a resident of the Jesse Lee Home for Children at Seward.

Queen Elizabeth I made a fortune as a speculator in the 16th Century coal market. She "obtained" a lease of the rich Durham coal fields for only 90 pounds a year.

Philly Condemns 'Desecration'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The City Council Thursday adopted a resolution condemning "the desecration and defacement of religious buildings" in Philadelphia and elsewhere, both in this country and abroad.

The resolution called on public officials everywhere to do their utmost to round up and punish the vandals responsible for widespread smearing of swastikas and other terror-symbols on places of worship.

These acts, the resolution asserted, "indicate a deep-seated anti-Semitism by members of the lunatic fringe who still adhere to the Nazi-like philosophies of bigotry, prejudice and hate."

Several synagogues and one Roman Catholic church here have been daubed with swastikas. One was painted Wednesday night on a front door of Temple Israel of Wyndemere, a synagogue and school in West Philadelphia. In Shamokin, swastikas were painted on the walls of two high school buildings. Mayor Lester Weller said he thought juveniles did it.

Buzzard will serve as acting health officer of the borough until a formal appointment that will meet state approval can be made.

Routine reports were heard from the secretary and the acting health officer and the annual report of the board of health to the Bangor Borough Council was approved by the membership.

The annual report from the Visiting Nurse Association was received and ordered made part of the annual report to the state department. Chief Burgess Quintus LaBar, met briefly with the board at the conclusion of the meeting.

Finsterwald Heads First Money List

DOW FINSTERWALD, winner of the Los Angeles Open, heads the list of professional golfing money winners after two weeks of the winter circuit.

Finsterwald has earned $5,600. Dave Ragan Jr., is second with $3,300 in winnings.

James Hadnot, the six-foot, ten-inch center for Providence College, which plays St. Joseph's in the Palestrina Saturday, is a cousin of Bill Russell, of the Boston Celtics. Hadnot, a 230-pounder is from Oakland, Cal., and is a protégé of cousin Bill. Russell's teachings have paid off. Hadnot is the seventh ranked rebounder in the nation.

Games Licenses Headed For Financial Increase

Hunting and fishing licenses are scheduled for a price increase says John S. Gottschalk, Director of the Northeast Region, Fish and Wildlife Service.

Gottschalk has facts that show 12 million hunters in the U. S. in 1955 spent one billion dollars on their sport but only five per cent of that figure went for licenses.

For the same year, 21 million fishermen paid out two billion dollars to bait lines but only two per cent went for licenses.

All this must change drastically if the country is to have good hunting facilities and wildlife to hunt, says Gottschalk.

Consider the plight of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Winston-Salem, N. C. The group annually sponsors the Piedmont Bowl, an exhibition pro football game in the town's huge Bowman-Gray Stadium.

"We spend a full year preparing for the event," says one of the jockey members, "including a mammoth advertising campaign, and we end up with 14,000 people in the stands."

But then the stock car people come in, rent the stadium for one night, tack some posters on telephone poles and draw 16,000 spectators.

Race Fans Even Turn Out In Freezing Weather

The town is so buggy on stock car racing, that on New Year's Day 2,000 people turned out to watch a race in sub-freezing weather.

And along the stock car racing line the CBS television network will present a two-hour live race program from Daytona International Speedway on Jan. 31.

The show, first live national telecast of a major speed event, will include men and women's races in new compact cars and qualifying runs by entrants for the $83,000 Daytona late model sweepstakes, Feb. 14.

Penn State's 1959 freshman football squad included seven non-Pennsylvanians—largest contingent of out-of-state frosh in several years. Five of the seven hailed from New Jersey.

Henry Opperman, newly-elected Penn State football captain, will be the first end to lead the Nittany Lions since 1954, when flanker Jim Garrity was co-captain with Don Balthasar.

Fans Gone But Horses Train During The Winter

Maryland horse racing fans may be in temporary winter hibernation but the horses aren't.

More than 300 thoroughbreds are galloping and exercising at Pimlico although there hasn't been an official race run there since Dec. 15.

"We did it to entice some horsemen to race with us throughout the late autumn season and by the same token, these horsemen will be present for the opening of the early Maryland spring season at Bowie," explains Louis Fendley, Pimlico's executive director.

There's not a seat in the house for the Philadelphia Warriors-Detroit Pistons battle at Bethlehem Monday. Game promoters ask fans without tickets not to come to the game expecting to buy tickets at game time. There hasn't been a ticket available for a week.

Sugar Ray Puts Title On Line Today

Cousy And Will

All-Star Tilt At Philly; East Favored

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The East rules a slight favorite Friday night in the All-Star game of the National Basketball Assn.

Veteran Bob Cousy, of the world champion Boston Celtics, gives the East a stronger backcourt because of his smooth ball handling and tricky passing. He is a good scorer, too, but his shooting ability is sometimes overshadowed by his ball handling.

Good Target
Wilt Chamberlain, the 7-1 rookie giant of the Philadelphia Warriors, will be an excellent target for Cousy's passes in the keyhole. He shows promise of smashing virtually all records.

For outside shooting strength, the East can rely on Dolph Schayes of Syracuse. Last week he became the first player in NBA history to reach 15,000 points.

The other two starters for the East will be Paul Arizin of Philadelphia at forward and Richie Guerin of New York at guard.

Four Scorers
The West, however, has four terrific scorers in forwards Jack Twyman of Cincinnati, Bob Pettit and Cliff Hagan of St. Louis and Elgin Baylor of Minneapolis.

Wait Dukes of Detroit will start at center for the West. His job will be to stop Chamberlain but he'll have help from three others since the West is expected to use a sagging defense.

Spelling Dukes at center will be Clyde Lovellette of St. Louis who has had good success in defending against Chamberlain.

Starting guards for the West will be Gene Shue of Detroit and Dick Garmaker of Minneapolis.

Mixed League Rolls Today

COLONIAL Mixed League bowls today at Colonial Lanes at 6:45 p.m.

To Discuss Park

TORONTO (AP)—Toronto's City Council will meet with Branch Ricky, president of the new Continental Baseball League.

Feb. 5 to discuss a major league ball park for this city, which has been granted Continental League franchise.

OFF THE BENCH—Head football coach at Drake University last season, Tommy O'Connell, former Illinois quarterback and later with the Cleveland Browns, has resigned to pro football as a player, ed his coaching job to return probably with the new league.

Label Tickets Set For NFL

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League fan will walk up to the gate of his favorite park next fall, throw open his jacket and show the label to the ticket taker.

"Sixty per cent wool, 40 per cent dacron," the label may read. "Section M, Row 42, Seat 14."

The NFL has made a deal with a clothes manufacturer to turn out club jackets for season ticket holders, at a normal cost, of course.

Instead of season tickets coming in the usual cardboard style, they would be sewn, as labels, on the inside pocket of the coats.

Former ESSC Star Merring Discharged

DICK Merring, former East Stroudsburg State College Little All-America halfback, has been honorably discharged from the Army.

Merring, now married and living in Quakertown, hopes to enter the coaching field.

During his Army tour, which included a year in Korea, he played with the Far East Army Football All-Stars.

Long Runs
He graduated from ESSC in 1957 after making the All-America squad. During the football season he turned in four runs of over 85 yards each including a 101 yard kickoff return, the longest run in the state that year.

Dick Merring . . . To Coach

Four teams shared the lead in the pro-amateur best-ball division with scores of 64. Tied were the teams of pro Al Johnston, Montreal, Canada, and amateur L. G. Blue, Sanger, Calif.; pro Jimmy Clark, Huntington Beach, Calif.; and amateur Bill Ransom, West Los Angeles; pro Jack Fleck, Northridge, Calif., and ex-baseball slugger Ralph Kiner of Palm Springs, and long hitting pro George Bayer with Morgan Borofsky of Pleasant Hills, Calif.

Merring is the son of Mrs. Anna Carroll of RD 1, Stroudsburg and a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School.

Art Wall Signs New Manor Pact

ART WALL JR. and Pocono Manor have come to terms for 1960.

John M. Crandell, vice president of the Pocono resort, said yesterday that Wall, the 1959 PGA Golfer of the Year, "accepted the Manor's latest contract renewal offer."

Crandall added that Wall, who is now playing the winter circuit on the West Coast, "received a sizeable pay increase."

Verbal Contract
The contract, which is for one year, is a verbal one. "We're very informal at the Manor," said Crandall, "and we don't use written contracts."

Wall, now playing in the Bing Crosby tournament at Pebble Beach, Cal., has been registering for the pro events out of Honesdale, rather than Pocono Manor during contract negotiations.

"Now that Art has decided to stay," Crandall said, "he'll change back to the Pocono Manor address."

Pro Cage Owners Kill Off Chances Of New Teams

By NOAH HALPER
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—National Basketball Assn. club owners Thursday virtually killed any chance of adding new franchises for the 1960-61 season.

President Maurice Podoloff said that nothing about new franchises was broached in the annual meeting and "we don't expect to meet with anyone seeking the franchise unless it's on an informal basis."

Hears Decision
Standing near Podoloff at the time was Los Angeles sports film executive Len Corbosiario making his annual trip to the league meeting in the hope of landing an NBA team for that Pacific Coast city. Corbosiario said he'd keep trying and was ready to field a team whenever the league owners were ready to admit him to membership.

Thursday's meeting did see these developments:

1. Delayed televising of NBA games via video tape to the Hawaiian Islands approved.

2. Formal selection of Syracuse as the site for the 1961 All-Star game. No date was chosen.

3. Scheduling of a meeting with the League Players' Assn. for Friday to discuss the pension program sought by the players.

The league failed to act on a schedule for next year and failed to set playoff dates.

There was no action on the Chicago franchise, admitted to the league in September, because of the absence of Chicago spokesman, Max Winter.

The first big game in the Monroe County second half is on tap tonight in the Pocono Twp.

Eastburg Travels

All High Teams But Bangor Play Today; Stroud At Home

ALL AREA high school teams but Bangor are in action tonight.

Stroud Union is at home against Northampton, and East Stroudsburg travels to Pen Argyl on the local scene.

In the Monroe County loop, Chestnuthill is at Barrett, Pocono Twp. goes to Tobyhanna Twp. and Coalinga is at Polk.

Southern Wayne faces Waymart in the Wayne County league and in a girl's game, Pen Argyl is at Bangor.

Fountain Hill was scheduled to play at Bangor but the Hillers play Wilson Boro for the first half championship of the Lehigh-Northampton league Saturday and cancelled the Bangor game. The contest has been rescheduled for Feb. 3.

Stroud Union has a good chance to even its Lehigh Valley mark at three and three against Northampton, winner of only one loop tilt.

A Mountaineer win might also push the West Main Streeters into third place in the league.

In the loop's feature attraction Whitehall and Catsaqua meet with first place and perfect marks at stake.

East Stroudsburg, loser of seven straight in a 108-59 victim of Fountain Hill in its last outing, opens its second half league schedule with Pen Argyl. In the first half Pen Argyl beat the locals 51-48 in the final seconds.

Snow Traction

Fastest Races Set For Ice This Weekend

THE fastest races in three years are expected at the Lake Naomi Ice Races this Sunday.

According to Skip Miller, race promoter, the layer of snow which covers the ice, will give the sports cars better traction. It is the first time in the history of the races that snow has covered the complete two and one-half mile circular course.

Look Faster
Miller believes that the cars will hit speeds greater than 100 miles an hour and the average speeds will be 70 mph.

"The cars will look like they're going faster," says Miller, because of the snow spray they throw up."

Four class events and a 30-lap feature race have been lined-up for the third week of racing. The class races will be of 10 laps each with the first cars getting the green flag at noon.

Locals Entered
Alex Coles of Shawnee in an Austin Healey 3,000 and Nancy Smith of Stroudsburg, piloting a Triumph, are scheduled to compete in the class races and the feature.

Mrs. Smith is the leader for the title of "Ice Queen" awarded to the woman driver who scores the most points during the season. Mrs. Alvina Ostrowski, Belleville, N.J., holder of the average speed record for the course, is second.

Geo Leads
Bethlehem's Ken Gee leads the race for the "Ice King" title. He is followed by J. Ward Allen, Endicott, N.Y., Dick Stietz, Reading and George Frey, Allentown.

Ice Notes: This week's snow covering may bring to a halt the winnings of the SAABs. The front wheel driver imports have won both feature races. But the snow mantle will equalize the traction of all the cars.

In two previous meetings this season the races have drawn a total of 6,500 spectators.

Miller is looking for a way to stop free-loaders from watching races from the highway shoulders. A string of cars almost a mile long parked to watch the races Sunday.

27 Safe After Forced Landing

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A Trans World Airlines Constellation with 27 persons aboard made a safe emergency landing at the Youngstown Municipal Airport Thursday when a small electrical fire broke out.

Capt. Alf Clay, pilot of Flight 546 from Chicago to New York, with final destination at Boston, said the plane was 15,000 feet over the Youngstown airport when the trouble was noted.

He said the crew members spotted smoke coming from the cockpit and the safety instruments also indicated an electrical fire. Clay said he immediately radioed for emergency landing permission to the federal airway traffic control center at Indianapolis and came down rapidly.

The fire was out by the time the plane landed.

The 22 passengers were placed aboard a United Airlines flight to New York about one hour later.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—A generous day. Reach for the unusual, learn new methods, help to build understanding between people. Things react for the better where ever you earnestly try. Don't be side-tracked by time-wasters.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Especially favored now. Transportation, travel, making important decisions, holding conferences, signing contracts, making new contacts. It is an excellent day for all of you who keep conscientiously busy.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Not an entirely attractive outlook, but the soundly energetic worker can find openings where others would fail. You may expect some irritating situations, but be philosophic and take them in stride.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Don't be indifferent to your work and other rightful obligations. Balance ambition with steady effort and common sense. Give a new twist to old routines.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Eliminate "cannot" from your vocabulary and substitute "I'll try."

The influences are more helpful than you may think at first. September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Don't allow anyone to change your mind or your plans; be ready to capitalize on opportunities. Maintain a steady tempo, unswayed by interruptions, to achieve best results.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—Cooperation with the right associates pays dividends. Keep a cool head and don't allow emotions to rule you. Enjoy the challenge, the obstacles.

November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—If you run into disturbing elements, take them in stride. Avoid such pitfalls as carelessness, lack of ambition, taking risky ventures. In free time, enjoy some wholesome relaxation.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Give some thought to your appearance, your mental development. Both are important to success. Seek helpful advice if needed. Reason with yourself as you would with others.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—Do not let doubt, anxiety or pessimism upset your equilibrium or program. Be in the vanguard of the doers and set your sights on the top goal.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—Don't be timid about accepting responsibilities. Remember that nothing is truly gained without EFFORT. Emphasize your personality, avoid strain and friction. And don't forget your sense of humor.

YOU BORN TODAY are gentle till around helpful neighbors. You have a tendency to underestimate your ability, sell your talents short; are willing to accept and incorporate worthwhile ideas of others in your plans. You are generally logical unless your heart overrules the head. Direct your affections thoughtfully; keep physically fit and do your keen mind justice.

AT&T Seeks Hike In Rates

'The Daily Investor'

Stock Growth Vs. Dividends

By William A. Doyle

Q. Last February I was advised by some well-meaning friends to sell some stock I owned and to buy mutual fund shares. My friends suggested that I buy through their broker. I explained to that broker that, because I am a 66-year-old widow, I need good dividends from my investment.

However, the broker advised me to buy shares of a "growth stock mutual fund." I did. I receive only about $300 a year in dividends from my mutual fund shares. I used to get approximately $450 a year from the stock I formerly held.

I am tempted to sell my mutual funds and put the money in the bank, even though I do have a fair-size bank account for emergencies. Do you have any suggestions?

A. Yes, several. Tell your "well-meaning friends" to keep their noses out of your business. Tell that broker that he doesn't know his business. Tell his boss the same thing.

And (most important) switch into an investment providing you with what you want—a good yield on your money.

That broker never should have sold you shares in a growth fund. Mutual funds of that type aren't intended to provide dividends. They aim for growth—an increase in the value of each share. Income, to them, isn't important.

It would seem that, for the best thing, you would be to get out of the growth investment situation. You naturally want to make the switch at William A. Doyle the least possible expense.

When you own shares in one mutual fund, it is sometimes possible to switch to another fund, without paying any additional commission—or at a reduced commission.

Some mutual fund organizations which run more than one mutual fund allow such a switch. Many others don't. You can check by writing to the fund in which you own shares. You naturally should be interested in transferring your investment into a fund aiming for a good dividend return.

And such a mutual fund does seem well suited for you, even if you do have to pay another commission. That "fair-size" bank account should be sufficient.

Q. If I call a broker and order him to buy 100 shares of a certain stock, how do I know for sure that the price I pay is exactly the same price the brokerage firm bought it at? I am, of course, talking about stock traded on a stock exchange.

A. When you order a brokerage firm to buy stock for you and pour order is filled on a stock exchange transaction, the brokerage firm's representative on the floor of the exchange buys the stock for you from another "floor broker," who represents the seller.

Your brokerage firm does not buy the stock and then sell it to you at a price above the market price at the time your order is filled. Every stock exchange keeps tabs to make sure things such as that don't happen.

The "confirmation slip" you receive after your order is executed states the price your order was filled at, what commissions and other fees were charged.

If you have any doubts about whether your order was filled at the best available market price, you should contact officials of the exchange on which the order was executed.

Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.

Area Benefited In 1959, Northeastern Bank Says

THE wisdom and foresight in creating the Northeastern Pennsylvania National Bank and Trust Company has been amply confirmed by the first full year operation, Frank E. Hemelright, president, told shareholders at the bank's annual meeting this week. "The need for the area banking institution has already been demonstrated, and there is evidence of a healthy and dynamic trend," said Hemelright. "As an area bank, 1959 introduced the enlarged bank to new and broader responsibilities on a community level."

By helping to finance three new industries, and as an important factor in financing a fourth, Northeastern National was able to contribute substantially to Hazleton's phenomenal industrial expansion. Loans negotiated through the bank's offices in Wilkes-Barre and Hazleton increased in each community by more than $2,000,000 since the merger.

The full services and resources of the area bank were extended during the year to the Northeastern end of Lackawanna County by the merger in May of the Pioneer Dime Bank of Carbondale with Northeastern National. The consolidation of these two institutions on a share-for-share exchange basis was another forward step enriching the bank's philosophy of area banking on a community level, Mr. Hemelright pointed out.

"The office has since gained a gratifying number of new accounts, over $750,000 in deposits and more

Not Seeking Convention Chair

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) said yesterday he has been approached "neither directly nor indirectly" with any offer of appointment as chairman of the platform committee for the 1960 Democratic national convention.

"I am not seeking the position," Clark told a newsman. His remarks were made in answer to reports reaching his staff that he is a strong possibility for the post.

Clark indicated the job would be a difficult one for someone with views as liberal as his.

At the same time, sources close to Clark indicated he might be more interested in being named to make the keynote speech at the convention—another position for which he has been reported as a possibility.
